

Nurse Working on Coronavirus Frontline in New York Claims the City is 'Murdering' COVID-19 Patients by Putting them on Ventilators and Causing Trauma to the Lungs

Description

By Martin Gould For Dailymail.com

Published: 22:22 GMT, 27 April 2020 | Updated: 23:46 GMT, 14 May 2020

- A frontline nurse working in New York on coronavirus patients claims the city is killing sufferers by putting them on ventilators, advocating against them
- The nurse persuaded a friend, a nurse practitioner who is not working on coronavirus patients, to make the video to get the word out
- 'It's a horror movie. Not because of the disease, but the way it is being handled,' the frontline nurse said through the friend, who only was identified as Sara NP
- Sara said COVID-19 patients are placed on ventilators rather than less invasive CPAP or BiPAP machines due to fears about the virus spreading
- She explained: 'The ventilators have high pressure, which then causes barotrauma, it causes trauma to the lungs'
- Others helping in the New York crisis say the claims are simply not true
- More than 12,000 people have died from the virus in NYC, with another 4,300 dying in other parts of the Empire State
- New York emergency room doctor Cameron Kyle-Sidell stepped down this month because he didn't want to follow the hospital's ventilator protocol
- Republican Minnesota Senator Scott Jensen told Fox News' Laura Ingraham that Medicare pays hospitals

A frontline nurse working in New York on coronavirus patients claims the city is killing sufferers by putting them on ventilators.

'It's a horror movie,' she said through a friend. 'Not because of the disease, but the way it is being handled.'

And she said relatives of the sick need to make it clear as soon as a person is taken to the hospital that they do not want them hooked up to the breathing machines.

YouTube has now taken down the video as 'violating its community standards,' which has been hotly rebutted by others working in New York during the crisis.

The nurse, who has relocated to New York temporarily to help with the city's COVID-19 crisis, persuaded a friend — a nurse practitioner who is not working on coronavirus patients — to make the video for her in order to tell the world what she says is happening inside hospitals.

'I am her voice here. I'm going to tell you what she has told me,' said the nurse practitioner, who was identified only as Sara NP. 'She wants this to get out.'

'She has never seen so much neglect. No one cares. They are cold and they don't care anymore. It's the blind leading the blind.'