

Are NYC Hospitals Killing Covid-19 Patients? This RN Says They Are, Using Ventilators

Description

NEW YORK CITY [FRN] – May 4, 2020 – NYC nurse Nicole Sirotek has come forward with a shocking first-hand account of what she has described as ‘holocaust-like’ treatment of Covid-19 patients, whom she says the system is ‘murdering’. In this video, below, Ms. Sirotek explains how the NYC hospital she has been assigned to appears to be intentionally mismanaging the care given, particularly (we are to infer) to patients of color (black and latino patients) in the ICU and in relation to Covid-19 diagnosis. Or it may be the case that the hospital, in pushing up Covid mortalities, does so without particular regard for race but as a matter of location would have more patients of color.

A shattered and demoralized ICU nurse, Ms. Sirotek explains clearly that these patients are not in fact dying of Covid-19, but of criminal degrees of mismanagement and professionalism to such an extent that it cannot be a mistake.

This account mirrors a related story out of New York featured last week. In that account, a nurse speaking on behalf of an anonymous friend, relayed nearly identical information – they are ‘murdering’ patients and labeling the deaths ‘Covid-19 presumed’.

Credible Hearsay from Colleague

Already confirmed in various reports elsewhere (Dr. Sidell, etc.) – all that is unique here is that there are RN’s on the inside who are aware that there is a broken protocol. But this protocol is so absurdly broken, that it raises serious questions of ‘towards what ends?’.

If it was your loved one who was denied medicines that work, and then scared into intubation only to die, you’d probably accuse the hospital of something akin to murder. Your lawsuit against them would likely fall under the category ‘wrongful death’.
