

Dr. Peter McCullough Sues Medical Journal

Description

Top COVID expert Dr. Peter McCullough has some explosive news regarding the experimental 'vaccines' and how the medical establishment is refusing to show the truth about them.

On today's episode of The John-Henry Westen Show, he announced that he's launching a lawsuit against a medical journal that removed scientific papers proving that there are major risks for children, and others, who receive the COVID jabs.

According to McCullough, the journal, "Elsevier," originally published the study, but scrubbed it just days before the FDA met to discuss approval for the injections to 5-11 year olds.

"This is an overt act of censorship," he said. "We will be launching a full scale lawsuit against Elsevier, and its going to be for breach of contract."

But why did they hide the papers from the public and the scientific community?

Dr. McCullough pointed out that these studies prove that the jabs cause severe injury to children and people of nearly every age group.

"The most notable finding is that this myocarditis heart inflammation that occurs typically on the second shot after either Pfizer or Moderna, it is explosive and it happens within a few days of the second shot."