

Happy New Year!

Description

Happy New Year to all of our readers! We are indeed out of the infamous year 2021, which future generations will associate with one of the biggest scams and biggest mass lunacies in history, a mania of unprecedented magnitude.

The few of us who maintained our composure and rationality will look back with a sense of dignity and also sadness at the failings of the human race. Too bad that we collectively do not deserve that name. Homo sapiens? All the talk for the last 40 years or so about the bell curve in the distribution of intelligence and about IQ differences, etc., has now been tested. And it came back positive, as in "incurable disease" for the big bulge in the middle of the curve. Talk about useless eaters . . .

A note of optimism, however, for the new year of 2022: It seems highly likely that the powers that be (PTB) have concluded that they have reached the point of triggering dangerous pushback. From here on, only outright military force could eliminate the resistance. The vast majority of people have already been had; they were inoculated with the poison, and that's enough for now. The PTB risk having their cover blown, and the obedient, docile masses could react. These people don't want the truth to be circulating. Why? One more push and people might start looking closer at the Moon Landing hoax, or the 9/11 hoax, and many others. So far, they haven't lost credibility with the populace. Time to move on.

Apparently, the Joe Rogan Experience podcast interview of mRNA inventor Dr. Robert Malone, M.D., hours after the doctor was banned from Twitter for having opinions on Covid that stood at odds with the mainstream narrative, is one step in changing the mass media narrative, after Bill Gates himself alluded to that: We Asked Before: Is Dr Bill Gates Folding? Yes He Is.

The opinions that Malone echoed during his Rogan appearance included, but were not limited to:

- Calling the government "out of control" and "lawless" in their Covid response
- Stating that mandates of "experimental" vaccines are "explicitly illegal"
- Noting that India had success in treating Covid early with drugs like ivermectin
- Saying that "half a million" excess deaths have occurred due to government actions
- Arguing that those with natural immunity have higher risk of vaccine adverse events
- Alleging that people are living through a mass formation psychosis

This event by itself is significant. Joe Rogan poses as some kind of "independent", not representative of the MSM. But who can believe that? The author of the above thinks that Rogan is another hero standing up to the MSM. He says: "Rogan generates so many views and has grown so quickly –strictly because he allows open dialogue, civil discourse and approaches things with honest intent –that there is no financial incentive to de-platform him."

Baloney. Think of Trump. What a following he still has, and "they" de-platformed him in the blink of an eye. No, Rogan gets the green light straight from the top. He might not know it directly, but he might understand it the minute he steps outside the invisible guidelines. And the same for Dr. Malone. Think, by comparison, of the premature death of Dr. Noack, who showed us the graphite hydroxide in the vaccines, or the killing of the PCR test inventor Dr. Kary Mullis, for standing up to Fauci, etc.

Indeed, the sudden rise of sites like Substack is also a sign that CNN will be undergoing capital refurbishing and meanwhile the monomaniacal focus on the melodrama called Covid-19 will make room for other – just as interesting and captivating – stories. Like the "recovery", which in fact will be the crash of 2022.

So, let us hope for better days ahead.
