
Profiting from War and Death: The Organ Harvesting Business in Ukraine

Description

Updated: May 26, 2023

On the camera of the Ukrainian who was killed by the Ukrainian <https://t.me/RtrDonetsk/17723> we found another video. In search of his friend, he witnessed an unusual operation.

We analyzed this video for a day, attracted specialists and that's what we found:

1. Doctors are clearly not Ukrainians
2. The logo on the container is painfully similar to the logo <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sfbOmcJge00>
3. There is an organ in the doctor's hand
4. It is clear why there is a guard

At first it may seem that a Ukrainian organ is being transplanted, but this is unlikely in the conditions of hostilities. Rather, on the contrary, Ukrainians are disassembled for spare parts. Everyone was very, very lucky that the fighter did not understand what was happening, otherwise they would have repeated the fate of the battalion commander <https://t.me/RtrDonetsk/17745>

I'm sorry, Mykola, but the "Skif" is paying for the leopards
@rtrdonetsk

Careful audio and visual analysis of the video reveals the following:

1. The cameraman is an armed soldier (his rifle is visible). He is looking for someone named "Skiff".
2. The surgeon who yells at the soldier speaks in heavily accented German (Most likely East German). The surgeon is clearly holding a human organ in his left hand.
3. The "patient" on the operating table appears to have a couple of IV drips attached to him, indicating that he is not (yet) dead.
4. Behind the surgeon there are containers, at least one of which is clearly an icebox, similar to those used to transport organs for transplant.
5. The operating room is guarded. The guard is wearing Peltor active hearing protection which indicates that this facility is at or very close to the front.
6. The soldier appears not to understand what is happening, otherwise the ending of this video may well have been a mass shooting event.

Russian Foreign Ministry Spokeswoman Maria Zakharova has issued a plea to deal with the “big business” of organ harvesting and called for close international monitoring of these illegal activities in the combat zone of Ukraine.

MOSCOW, May 24. /TASS/. The activity of “organ harvesters” in the combat zone in Ukraine calls for close international monitoring and urgent measures, Russian Foreign Ministry Spokeswoman Maria Zakharova said on Wednesday.

According to her, illegal organ harvesting in Ukraine is an “accepted and proven fact.” “This is a big business in armed conflict zones, extremely profitable for those who run it,” the diplomat said. “Information on organ harvesting in Ukraine nowadays deserves attention and requires urgent international efforts on monitoring and taking relevant measures,” she added.

“The existence of this terrible bloody business is impossible without sponsorship at the highest government level,” Zakharova pointed out.

She highlighted that “Ukraine has been embroiled in scandals related to illegal transplantology long before the 2014 coup d’etat and the events that followed.”

“Since the late 90s, there have been media reports that low-income Ukrainians were forced to sell their internal organs in order to make a living and there was information on illegal harvesting of biological materials from corpses,” the diplomat explained.

“However, the beginning of hostilities in the eastern part of the country has exacerbated the situation,” she added.

According to the spokeswoman, the authorities of the Donetsk People’s Republic (DPR) have information on Ukrainian nationalists illegally harvesting biological materials from POWs, locals and wounded Ukrainian soldiers.

According to existing data, in the active combat zone, 20-30 people per day end up being operated on by the “organ harvesters” many of whom traveled to Artyomovsk from foreign countries specifically for this purpose. (Source.)

Her plea came on the same day that the head of Russia’s private military Wagner Group, Evgeny Prigozhin, went public and stated that his private military forces lost around 20,000 soldiers during the fight for Artyomovsk, and that half of these deaths were from inmates recruited from Russian prisons.

The head of Russia’s Wagner Group, Evgeny Prigozhin, has revealed that his private military company lost around 20,000 servicemen during the fight for the strategic Donbass city of Artyomovsk, also known as Bakhmut.

He further claimed that Kiev had suffered some 50,000 fatalities during what has been described as the biggest battle of the 21st century so far.

In an interview published by Wagner’s press service on Tuesday, Prigozhin said he had boosted the company’s ranks with 50,000 inmates from Russian prisons during the long-running battle.

They were offered a chance to fight instead of completing their sentences. He added that there was even split between prisoners and volunteers among the dead, accounting for about 10,000 losses each. (Source.)

Ukraine has a long history of participating in organ harvesting and trafficking, even before the CIA-led military coup in 2014. One can't help but wonder if the Wagner Group is also profiting from organ harvesting, as a single prisoner from Russia who dies fighting in Ukraine could be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars for their organs.

In March this year (2023) we published a video of a Russian soldier who stated that they found a "baby factory" in Ukraine where young children are raised for the pedophile child brothels, or murdered to harvest their organs and sell on the Black Market.

Here is the video of the Russian soldier with English subtitles. This is on our Bitchute channel.

Russians are not the only ones who have documented this horrible practice of trafficking babies and young children for sex and then murdering them for their body parts.

Two years ago we published the documentary published by Polish film producer Patryk Vega, called "Eyes of the Devil."

In this documentary, Vega is able to actually interview one of the child traffickers who trafficks babies from Poland and Ukraine to child brothels in Germany, where the children, usually around 5 to 7-years-old, work for a few years in the brothels until their tiny bodies start to break down, and then they are murdered to harvest their organs which are trafficked to the rich and powerful. This is not an easy documentary to watch, and I was emotionally disturbed while watching it, and I have covered this topic of child sex trafficking for almost a decade now.

And yet many in the western media, even in the alternative media, are calling this "Russian propaganda" and "disinformation."

However, it is the western media that has reported for over a decade now that organ harvesting and trafficking in Ukraine is a very real and horrible problem, long before the current war started.

14 years ago, the European Centre for Law and Justice published an article titled:

The case of the missing children; Lost babies and corpses without organs fuel allegations of trafficking in body parts in Ukraine

In 2010, The Jerusalem Post published an article titled:

12 Israelis arrested in Ukraine for organ trafficking

Earlier this month (May, 2023), Ynet News also published a report that organs harvested in Ukraine often end up in Israel.

Blood libel: Kremlin claims organs harvested by Ukraine end up in Israel

A Russian former senior official argued the war in Ukraine became a very profitable battlefield for “black-market transplantologists,” in a report picked up by several Russian media outlets.

In an interview with Russian outlet Moskovskij Komsomolets, retired Major General of Police, and ex-head of the Russian Central Bureau of Interpol Vladimir Ovchinsky claimed the Armed Forces of Ukraine are delivered human organs harvested from the dead and wounded in the war, people who are still alive, such as Russian prisoners of war, and even Ukrainian civilians who happened to be at the wrong place at the wrong time.

When asked where the organs are transported to, Ovchinsky said: “The most effective and successful ‘workshops’ are located in four countries – Turkey, India, Israel and South Korea.”

“Israel is also a leader in the field of innovative medical techniques, which are used throughout the world. The clinics of this country successfully perform organ transplant operations.”

The former advisor to the interior minister of Russia also added that large amounts of medical equipment, including containers for transporting human organs, were sent to Ukraine since the beginning of Russia’s invasion. (Full article.)

World News Insider also published an article earlier this month reporting on this topic as covered in the western media in the past:

War is indeed very profitable for the Globalists, for all the wrong reasons.
